The Ayrton Senna-Schumacher rivalry was a short-lived competition. It was between two unlikely competitors, a new racer on the grid and a past master. By 1991, Senna had already won three world championships, while Schumacher had just started his career. It was in 1992 that Schumacher would enroll his first race victory.

Sport represents a very intense and dynamic form of competition for individuals and for teams. Many of the themes of business, including leadership, teamworking, mentoring and coaching, strategy, innovation, etc. occur in sport in a very acute and focused way and will determine success or failure. With the use of compelling international examples the authors show how sport provides crucial leadership lessons for business.
